Alabama Eye Bank Offers Free Online Education Credits

Nurses across the state may receive free online continuing education contact hours through the Alabama Eye Bank's new education program, MED ED.

The AEB program offers nine different courses taught by Michael Bauer, MD, an expert in eye and blood banking as well as a pioneer in the new field of personalized medicine. He has served as medical director and consultant for eye and tissue banks around the U.S. as well as the Physician of Record for several personalized medicine companies.

As an ABN Approved Provider of CE, ABN 1190, expiration 10/14/2012, nurses may receive up to 5.5 credit hours by viewing and taking quizzes that follow the programs at the Eye Bank's website, alabamaeyebank.org. Credits will be sent electronically to ABN, and participants may print their own certificates for personal record keeping. Certificates should not be sent to ABN. Topics such as cancer screening, sepsis, hepatitis and blood samples and testing are covered.

"We are delighted to offer this unique educational opportunity to Alabama's nurses by such an expert as Dr. Bauer. We expect thousands of Alabama nurses will visit our website to further their educations," Teresa Ham, chief administrative officer, AEB, said.

Ham advises nurses that all information about the program may be accessed at alabamaeyebank.org/education/nurses/med-ed-courses/directory.
